Ford predicts U.S. woes to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans face further erosion of their standard of living, higher unemployment and perpetually higher energy costs, President Ford's economic report to Congress said today.

"The American economy was built on the basis of low-cost energy ... this era has now come to an end," Ford said in a message accompanying the report.

The report also said the decline in the nation's economy was so steep in the fourth quarter of last year that the administration cannot promise a quick rebound in the nation's economy this year.

But the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which prepared the report, still expects the economy will "move on to the road to recovery" in the second half of 1975, following another steep decline with high unemployment and high inflation in the first half.

"The most pressing concern of policy is to halt the decline in production and employment so that growth of output can resume and unemployment can be reduced," they said.

But the report left no doubt that the Ford administration has given up hope of bringing world oil prices anywhere near the lower prices of just 18 months ago. In fact, Ford said most domestic oil is at "artificially low prices" that must be raised.

His advisers said some protection must be established to keep domestic prices high enough to protect new investment in other costly energy sources.

The consequences of the higher energy prices will mean further hardship for Americans, the report said.

"A reduction in standards of living and potential output compared to what we would otherwise enjoy is inevitable ..." the report said, although it added that the economic and energy program is designed to hold such effects to a minimum.

Like Ford's $349 billion fiscal 1976 budget that was submitted to Congress Monday, the 384-page economic report painted a gloomy outlook for the economy.

Ford, who refused to recognize the economy was in a recession until two months ago, said in the first words of his message, "The economy is in a severe recession. Unemployment is too high and will rise higher."

Unemployment is expected to rise to an average 8 per cent in 1975, up from an average 5.6 per cent in 1974. Ford said despite this, the nation must live with higher unemployment than it would like because of the danger of inflation.

"It is vital that we look beyond the unemployment problem to the need to achieve a reduction in inflation not only in 1975 but also in 1976 and beyond," Ford said.

Ford's advisers also predicted:

—A decline in real economic output — as measured by the Gross National Product — of about 3 per cent on top of the 2.2 per cent decline last year.

—Inflation, as measured by the GNP, of 11 per cent, although declining from a mid-year high to a rate of about 7 per cent in the fourth quarter.

—A decline in real investment by businesses in plants and equipment of about 9 per cent, which was a lowering of investment projections made only last month.

—A pickup in the housing industry to an annual construc-

East Prairie seeks ways to combat drug abuse

EAST PRAIRIE — Is there a problem of drug and alcohol abuse among young people of East Prairie? What can a community as a whole do to combat the problem?

These and other questions were asked Monday night at a meeting called by the health council of the local school district and superintendent Gerald McElrath.

About 35 persons, including school administrators and teachers, ministers, law enforcement officials, parents and businessmen attended the meeting held in the high school library.

The response to the question, is there a problem?, was an overwhelming "Yes" and, while there was some suggestions offered which might help some, all agreed that there is no pat solution to the problem of drug and alcohol abuse, which affects not only local young people but others all over the country.

The decision to call the meeting was not prompted by a feeling of panic over an enormous problem of drug and alcohol use by East Prairie children but rather a preventive measure in an attempt to lessen the growth of the problem.

The Rev. Bill Porter, pastor of the Church of God, stated that in his opinion the use of alcoholic beverages was more wide-spread than drug abuse, adding that in the past seven days he had counseled with two young people who have a drug problem and five with an alcohol problem.

Suggestions offered by Rev. Porter which might help in combating the problem included informing and educating parents to the dangers; stricter law enforcement; seeking punishment to the full extent of the law for offenders; and closed campuses at the junior and senior high schools.

Police Chief Jake Abner, Mayor Lawanda Douglas, Lawayne Law, principal of the high school, and Dr.A. L. Weaver, were among others who spoke out on the subject.

Most agreed that a large part of the problem begins at home and the general concensus was that parents are too permissive and fail to recognize that the problem does exist.

Chief Abner cited lack of cooperation as one of the problems his department faces in dealing with offenders, plus lack of punishment if they are arrested. "We can pick them up, turn them over to juvenile authorities and they are back on the street in no time," he said. Abner suggested that curfews be set at 10 p.m. weekdays as a possible deterent.

According to Lawayne Laws, students fear what action the school will take if they are caught more than the punishment handed down by juvenile officials or the court.

While there is some evidence of drug use in the high school, the basic problem is alcohol, Laws said. Most of the use of drugs or alcohol takes place during the noon hour and before and after school.

"Help us with the problem, don't refer to them as school kids using drugs and alcohol, they belong to the parents, we're only trying to work with them and offset the problem," Law said. School functions, including dances and all games, are closely supervised, especially in the restroom areas where exchanges are more likely to be made.

Statistics quoted by Dr. Weaver show there are approximately 25 hard drug users, 300 steady marijuana users, and about 20 pushers in the East Prairie area. The importance of family education on the matter and turning in any information of a pusher was stressed by Weaver.

Other suggestions included church affiliated meetings for young people, a tip-line, polling students for their suggestions on how to deal with the problem, and organized effort seeking legislative action through the area representatives to Congress.

Additional meeting for the public will be held at a later date.

County will not exceed budget

BENTON — "We're trying to hold down expenses, maybe even underspend," Louie Hirschowitz presiding judge of the Scott County Court, said Monday. He was speaking to the county's elected officials.

The Scott County Court had requested the meeting with the office holders during Monday's session to explain the court's policy in reaching the recently approved 1975 budgets.

Hirschowitz told them that the 1975 budget has been approved and stated, "When you spend all the money in your budget -- that's it.

"If you run below your budget, we'll give you a big hearty thanks," Hirschowitz said, then added that if they overspend their budget allocations, they will have to make up the difference themselves.

He told them there could be no transferral of funds.

"The money appropriated for items is for those items only," he said. Any purchase over $100 in value now must be approved by the County Court.

The various offices in the courthouse must now make montly reports to the County Court concerning how much they spend and what they spend it for, Hirschowitz said.

An exception will be made in statutory changes or price changes over which the county has no control. He said there are no extra reserve funds in the budget, but "we'd have to go along with the statutory change and hope we can find the money somewhere."

"Let's all work together and we can get this county out of the red," Associate Judge Melvin Glueck of Illmo said.

Hirschowitz stressed that he was speaking for the entire court. "This is a three-member court," he said, indicating that decisions will be reached through the cooperative efforts of all three members.

Man robbed in his home

Two men and two women reportedly robbed Clem Marshall, 122 South St., at gunpoint in his home between 7 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Monday, police said.

Police said the men and women came into the home, pulled a gun and took a television set valued at $150, a radio at $50, a $10 bill, a watch worth $70 and a gold ring worth $30.

Police said they could not get complete information from Marshall because he was intoxicated.

Lila Farrenburg of New Madrid told police a cape was taken from her car about 1 p.m. while it was parked in the Wal-Mart Discount City parking lot on East Malone Avenue. The rust-colored cape was valued at $20.

Doris Ann Staggs, 234 Dorothy, told police that someone has been stealing mail out of her mailbox since Jan. 3.

She said she has not received any mail during that time, although the mailman told her he had put mail in her mailbox.

Congress urged to protect farmers against losses

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Farmers should not be expected to continue to produce beyond national needs in support of national interests without adequate protection against production losses, spokesmen for Midcontinent Farmers Association Tuesday told the United States Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry holding hearings here on existing farm programs.

MFA vice presidents L. C. Carpenter of Columbia and Hilton Bracey of Portageville described income protection features of the existing farm law as being almost totally ineffective and out-of-step with current needs and conditions.

They said that inflationary increases in farm production costs since its enactment have made existing loan and target prices wholly inadequate. For the most part, existing loan levels are meaningless and target prices fail to even reach production cost levels -- to say nothing about a reasonable return on the farmer's investment. Under existing legislation, target prices will most likely be at less than 45 per cent of parity by the time the 1975 crops are harvested.

The MFA officials related that while farmers are expected to plant fence row to fence row, they are given no assurance that the international demand for their products will not greatly decline. Trade relationships have already shown signs of weakening. Oil consuming nations are spending more for oil and less for food imports. International conflicts may cut off certain markets. In order to continue producing under such uncertainties in support of national interests, farmers must be provided adequate protection against production losses. Such protection can only be provided by loan and target prices that reflect prevailing economic and social condictions, they stressed. U. S. farmers now produce enough for the 213 million persons in the United States plus an estimated 500 million persons outside the United States, based upon local diets. Thus, U. S. farmers represent only one-tenth of one per cent of the world's population, yet they provide food required in local diets for 22 per cent of the world's population. These food and fiber exports have amounted to almost $35-billion in the past two years – improving the U.S. balance of trade and strengthening the dollar. Therefore, U.S. farmerss, representing only 5 per cent of the nation's population, have produced food far beyond its domestic need in support of the national interest of the total population, the MFA spokesmen said.

MFA specifically recommended that loan levels and target prices be established on the allotted production of all basic commodities included in the Agricultural and Consumer Act of 1973 at 70 per cent and 85 per cent of parity.

City to sue 4 firms for faulty equipment

The city will soon be filing suit against four firms in connection with the installation of faulty equipment at the sewage treatment plant, City Manager Charles Church told the City Council Monday night.

The council set the date of the city election for April 1 and received copies of an interpretation of the new campaign law. The council also set Feb. 10 as the date for a public hearing into a rate increase request by See-Mor Cable TV.

Church announced the appointment of Walter Wilson, a police lieutenant, as the city's new juvenile officer. Church also said the Missouri State Highway Department is considering lowering the speed limit on East Malone Avenue to cut down on the number of accidents.

LAW SUIT

Sikeston will file suit this week in Circuit Court against three equipment suppliers and a local construction company in an effort to correct defects in aeration equipment installed two years ago at the city sewage plant on South Ingram Street.

Firms named in the suit are Ray Clinton Construction of Sikeston, Riddle Engineering of Kansas City, Philadelphia Gear Co. of Philadelphia and EIMCO of Salt Lake City.

Dick Inman, director of Sikeston Light and Water Co., said the equipment works only part of the time. He indicated the city has made efforts to have the defects repaired but said the companies have not come forward to repair the equipment.

Inman said there is a question as to whether or not the correct type of treatment equipment was installed in the plant. If a new type of treatment has to be substituted, he indicated the cost would be $80,000. He said he does not know how much it would cost to correct the present equipment.

ELECTION

The council set April 1 as the date for the city elections. Two terms expire this year. If more than four candidates file for the posts, there will be a primary election on March 18. The deadline for candidates to file was set for March 7.

The deadline for voter registration to be eligible for the primary is Feb. 19, and March 5 is the deadline for the general election.

ELECTION LAW

The terms of Councilmen Frank Ferrell and Bill Ryan expire this year. Both men expressed some doubt as to whether they will seek re-election due to requirements of the new state election law.

Church circulated copies of the major points of the new campaign law reprinted from a recent article in a magazine published by the Missuri Municipal League.

The law requires all candidates to file two reports, a campaign finance report and a candidate personal income report.

The campaign finance report must be filed only if a candidate's expenses or contributions exceed $500. It must include the date and name and address of all contributors of $25 or more.

The big stumblnig block for candidates is the personal income report. Each candidate must list any business or investments in which the candidate, spouse or minor children had an interest of more than $1,000.

The candidate must list, by name and address, the source of all income and gifts exceeding $100 received during the past 12 months.

If the candidate or spouse owns more than 10 per cent of a firm, a list must be provided of the source of all income exceeding $500 received by that firm for services rendered during the preceding 12 months.

Ferrell, whom the council has appointed a mayor during his term, said it would be very difficult for many people to meet the requirements of the law. He gave examples of a grocery store owner not knowing who bought $100 worth of food or of someone who conducts business in cash, but does not put the customers name on the receipt. Another problem he cited would result when someone pays for a purchase by using a check from another person. In that case, he said the wrong person would be listed on the records.

Others having problems with the law would be doctors, lawyers and psychiatrists, who would be reluctant or unable to name their clients.

THE ISSUE OF INCOME TRANSFERS

In his State of the Union address, President Ford made official his about-face and surrender to inflation. The proposed $16 billion tax rebate for 1974 and across-the-board tax cut for 1975 should stimulate the economy somewhat. But the price for that advantage is more inflation.

The President's anti-recession medicine will likely look mild indeed, however, by the time Congress has chopped it up and passed its own economic package. And the prospects are that by then the economic waters will be muddied even further by a national debate over the wisdom of wholesale income transfers from the productive sector of the economy to the non-productive sector.

"Politicians don't like to deal in the iron laws of economics because to present hard truths leaves them open to the charge of lacking compassion," editorializes the Wall Street Journal in its January 15 edition. "But we would argue that the higher and only responsible form of compassion is to have a basic concern for the health of the total economy, since economic collapse will bring suffering to everyone, and most of all the poor, the young, the weak and the aged."

Political opponents of the President, as the Journal notes, propose to create large numbers of public service jobs, restore wage and price controls on a "selective" basis, allocate capital and tax interest.

"They would step up their assault on the nation's corporations, destroying rather than rebuilding the incentives to restore production," says the Journal. "... measures to combat the current inflationary recession have to concentrate on getting the productive to produce. The poor and weak will not benefit by being given a large piece of a constantly shrinking pie."

We believe the Journal makes a good point: it is essential that our Nation's economy as a whole be encouraged to produce rather than discouraged. Congress must realize that no country in the world can solve its economic problems simply by giving an increasingly larger share to its non-productive citizens. That can only lead to economic disaster for everyone.

WORST IDEA OF THE YEAR

There will probably be other bad ones to come along in 1975, but the worst idea we have heard so far this year comes from the distinguished Dean of the Ivy League college of Columbia University, Dr. Peter Pouncey. His proposal, made at a meeting of the American Association of Colleges held in Washington,D. C., is that new legislation be enacted immediately to provide government subsidies to students at private colleges to match the financial support provided by state and local governments to city and state colleges.

Surely Dr. Pouncey should recognize, by now, that government money means government control, as surely as night follows day; and that a "private" school aided directly or indirectly (scholarships, for example) by "public" money will not long remain private. It will be quickly and efficently hemmed in with a thousand and one government rules, regulations, requirements and restrictions which will quickly extinguish whatever freedom the college has been able to maintain as a private institution.

The answer to the acknowledged financial plight of the private schools and colleges throughout the country is increased financial assistance from business, industry, alumni associations and foundations. Genuine sacrifices will have to be made, but it is important to keep the private schools and colleges alive. State and public institutions play an important role, but it would be a genuine tragedy and an incalculable loss to America if the private educational institutions were forced to give up their freedom as the price of survival.

NO REFORM

The removal of Representative Leonor K. Sullivan from her post as chairman of the subcommittee on consumer affairs is a disappointing exception to the generally commendable challenges to the seniority system in Congress. Her defeat had less to do with her own performance than with a byzantine shuffling of subcommittee chairmanships to make room for a supporter of Representative Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, who replaced Representative Wright Patman as chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee.

Mrs. Sullivan has, in fact, done a more than creditable job in representing the consumer interest during her years as chairman: she fought successfully for passage of the Truth in Lending and the Fair Credit Reporting Acts and she continues to enjoy the support of independent consumer groups. That she nevertheless lost her position after supporting Mr. Patman over Mr. Reuss does not redound to the credit of those who voted to depose her.

HARD HEART

Yes, we are hard hearted enough to want the restoation of capital punishment. Too many murderers go to prison and commit another murder there, or get a parole and go back to the dark, night streets and kill with knife or gun. It would be fine to have some statistics published on the number of hardened criminals who have been rehabilitated in prison, and that is what prison is supposed to do. Now we have not forgotten what God said to Cain after he had murdered his brother Abel. It's in Genesis 4, verse 15: "And the Lord said unto him (Cain): Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And the Lord set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him." But we have come to believe that the life of man is so cheap in the minds and hearts of today's criminals, it is time we put fear in their thoughts.

WHERE FOREIGN AID BILLIONS HAVE GONE

After $197 billions spent from 1945 to 1974, America's foreign aid programs are coming under fire from ordinary taxpayers to top government officials.

Behind the pressure for cutbacks is the growing feeling that the U.S. has spent too much money for the wrong purposes in the wrong places -- and has received too little in return. Also, more important than where aid money goes, some opponents argue,, is how the funds are spent. Stories of waste and corruption were recently published by The Philadelphia Inquirer which has caused more furor in Washington.

A U.N. LESSON IN DOUBLE STANDARDS

The double standard is alive and well in the United Nations. Not that there has ever been much doubt about it, but seldom has it been more glaringly apparent than in the debate over the question of expelling the Republic of South Africa because of its racial policies.

Even the conciliatory speech by South Africa's ambassador, R. F. Botha, in which he pledged his country to "do everything in our power to move away from discrimination based on race or color " -- an astounding reversal of South Africa's policy of apartheid -- had little effect on black African delegates pressing for a show-down vote on expulsion, blocked in the end only by the Security Council vetoes of the three western powers.

In the meantime, these same delegates continue to ignore far worse violations of human rights in many of their own countries that make South Africa at its worst look positively benevolent.

For example, a recent report to the U.N. by the International Commission of Jurists described the situation in Uganda as a "reign of terror." It is estimated that more than 90,000 Ugandans have been murdered or executed in the three years since General Idi Amin overthrew the government of President Oote and instituted a terrorist dictatorship. The killing has struck virtually every tribe in the country, including Amin's own tribe.

Yet not since the 1972 session, when Britain protested the persecution and expulsion of 60,000 Ugandan Asians, has a voice been raised in the U.N. to condemn Amin or the arming of his regime by the Soviet Union, Libya, Egypt and Algeria. The commission's report has been placed in the U.N.'s file-and-forget box.

The silence of the Western nations in this matter is not surprising. They have nothing to gain by sticking their necks out to protest the oppression of black Africans by black Africans.What is incomprehensible is the self-righteous blindness of the black Africans themselves.

But then, much of what passes for statesmanship in the United Nations is beyond comprehension.

THE OIL WAR

Intelligence Digest has more than once pointed to the important role the Soviet Union is playing behind the scenes in the oil and energy crisis. There has been a sudden intensification in the Soviet efforts to bring about an all-out confrontation between the Arab oil producers and the West, with open talk of "capitalist" preparations for the military seizure of the oil resources and Russia's readiness to come to the assistance of the Arabs.

Specifically, the Russian message to the Arab oil producers is, in the words of Yevgeniy Rusakov who speaks for the Kremlin, that the capitalist world has been "defeated in the first round of the struggle" and that further persserverance on the part of the Arabs combined with a refusal to be intimidated by the brinkmanship of Dr. Henry Kissinger can quickly bring final victory.

Moscow acknowledges, however, that not all oil producers -- Saudi Arabia for one -- may want to bring humiliation and destruction to the West. To overcome such qualms Russia has set out to prove to them, and especially to King Faisal and the Shah of Persia, that the Western contention that the oil crisis by itself is the major cause of the economic disruption is nothing more than a smokescreen to conceal the inevitability of the collapse of 'capitalism."

Moscow's urgent message to the Arab oil producers now is that the U.S. is already far advanced in the preparations for military intervention, possibly "as early as next spring" and probably within a year. Citing sources in Washington, the Russians maintain that the primary target will be the oil producing countries in the Persian Gulf. And, they maintain, the sole motivation for such military intervention is the Western refusal to accept the fact that "we are moving out of the times when the economically strong could dictate to the weak."

When Dr. Kissinger goes to Moscow he gets the red carpet treatment, and Brezhnev refers to him as his friend. At the same time, however, the Russians are portraying Kissinger to the oil producers as their arch-enemy, the author of the scheme to knock together a "bloc of capitalist countries" for the purpose of crushing all the aspirations of the oil producers to rule their own destiny and build, among other things, a better Middle East.

According to Moscow one of the early measures against the oil producers, planned by Kissinger, is the seizure of their capital held in Western banks. The purpose of this scare story is, of course, obviou. It is primarily to induce the Arabs to withdraw their petrodollars, thereby causing immediate economic chaos, and worse, in the West.

It is all a question of psychological warfare, this part of the Soviet message runs, in which the Wests' "defacto declaration of war" against the oil producers will prove to be no more than hot air if the oil producers stand firm and, of course, develop their solidarity with the Soviet Union. It is "sabrerattling," the Arabs above all are told, but any serious Western intention to make good these threats will be soon nullified by the "new correlation of forces in the world."

The Russians may have two views in mind, but their activities indicate that in either or both of those minds they are determined to aggravate the oil crisis and the problems arising from it. It is important to bear this in mind in view of a theory in the West now gaining ground that Russia does not actually want the economic embarrassment of West Europe or the United States as this would reduce the advantages the Soviet Union hopes to derive from trade and economic deals with the West.

Intelligence Digest says some Soviet economists may be thinking along those lines, but not the actual policy-makers.

RECIPE OF LOVE

Here's a recipe of love, designed by the Boys' Clubs of America and used daily by their Royal Oak, Michigan chapter. It is simple and, if followed closely, will yield a happy, well adjusted individual able to take his place as a responsible citizen upon reaching manhood. It is flexible enough to adapt to most communities. The Royal Oak version follows:

Take one boy with a "special" problem, i.e., deafness, mental retardation, paralysis or emotional disturbance. Add one compassionate staff member to act as his personal counselor. Stir in a heaping teaspoon of understanding. Be careful not to accidentally add pity; this boy will be expected to follow the normal rules and measure up to average expectations. It is important to find the boy's particular interests and stir in a large amount of it, for this will keep him excited about the program. Blend these ingredients well and pour into the relaxed, educational atmosphere of a Boys' Club. While the ingredients are working together to create a better individual, the associate director of the Club will have time for a weekly consultation with the boy's parents and to evaluate the boy's progress.

The mixture will take several years and--as in the other 1,000 Boys' Clubs across the U.S. serving approximately one million boys in programs of self-improvement, guidance and recreation--it will yield a healthy, well-rounded individual, eager to take his place in, and contribute to, the well-being of society. This recipe has been in existence for 112 years. Try it sometime in your own community. You'll like the results.

HIGH INTEREST CAUSED IN PART BY U.S. CREDIT

Interest on the Federal debt ($487.1 billion at the end of fiscal year 1974) has almost tripled in the last decade, according to the Tax Foundation, Inc., of New York, N.Y.

Interest alone on the debt is running at an estimated $31 billion this fiscal year, the Foundation adds. This sum has become the third largest spending category in the Federal budget-equal to a $429 annual bill for each American family, and to 17 cents of every dollar collected in Federal income taxes.

The significantly higher interest rates both government and private borrowers must now pay are in part fostered by Federal borrowing demands, the Foundation states. To accommodate the almost annual shortfall between Federal outlays and income, 17 deficits in the past 20 years, Congress has "raised" the ceiling on the Federal debt 32 times.

This inflationary spending, requiring additional government borrowing in an already tight money market, has jumped the national debt over $260 billion in the last four years up from a little over $271 billion in fiscal 1954.

ANOTHER WATERGATE BREAK-IN

WASHINGTON — "I'm getting desperate," said Plotkin, an unemployed friend of mine. "I think I'll break into the Watergate."

"Are you mad?" I said. "Why would you want to break into the Watergate?"

"I figure it's worth $200,000 if it's worth a dime."

"You can't get $200,000 for breaking into the Watergate. They don't have that kind of money around there."

"I don't expect to get it from the break-in, dummy," Plotkin said. "I plan to sell the literary rights to the robbery. I decided that for what they're paying for Watergate books I could get a Book of the Month out of it. You see, all the other Watergate books have to do with the old break-in. But my story would be about a fresh robbery, so it would be different."

"Plotkin, nobody is going to pay you a fortune to write a book about (ital) your (unital) break-in. You never worked for the White Houe."

"What's that got to do with it? I'm a better writer than most of those guys."

"Publishers are paying vast sums for Watergate books not because of the break-in but becaue so many people in power were involved in covering it up.If you broke into the Watergate, I doubt if it would get into the newspapers."

Plotkin said, "You don't know that. All you have to do is say the word 'Watergate' to a publisher, and he'll write out a check. You know what a good thief needs these days?"

"A lawyer?"

"No, a literary agent. I thought you might know someone who would handle the rights to my break-in.I thinkwe should keep the paperback contract separate from the hardback sale and put the movie rights up for auction. If we can get Robert Redford to bid against Paul Newman, we could even get a piece of the picture."

"You certainly have thought this out, Plotkin. But aren't you afraid to go to prison?"

"For breaking into Wateragte?" Plotkin laughed. "What could I get, six months?"

"You might get more than that," I warned.

"Not if I turned state's evidence and saw the error of my ways."

"But in order to turn state's evidence you'd have to implicate somebody else. Whom could you implicate?"

"Nixon," said Plotkin happily.

"How could you implicate Nixon? He would have nothing to do with your break-in."

"So what? He has a pardon from Gerry Ford so they couldn't touch him. It isn't as if I was sending an innocent man to jail."

"But, Plotkin, Nixon has had enough problems of his own without tying him in with a break-in he had nothing to do with. You have to be fair."

"Yeah, but if Nixon hadn't spent so much time covering up the other Watergate break-in and had worked on the economy instead, I might not be out of a job now."

"I don't like it," I said. "But I'll call a literary agent friend of mine and ask him for you."

I placed the call. "How much are publishers paying for Watergate books?" I asked my friend. "Yeah, it's the story of a break-in and it implicates Nixon . . . $75,000? Right, I'll get back to you."

I told Plotkin, "You can get $75,000 against 15 per cent royalties and 50 per cent of the paperback sale."

"That's all?" said Plotkin in disgust. "The hell with it. It isn't worth my time."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Soured on Red-Baiter Sourwine

By JACK ANDERSON
with
Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Senate's weary old Communist-chasers, the last survivors of the McCarthy era, are losing interest in the Red Menace. They would rather bask in the tripical sun or gamble at Reno's roulette wheels.

In pursuit of the pleasant life, the Senate Internal Security Committee's top watchdogs have arranged lately to look for subversives in such vacation spots as Miami, San Juan, Mexico City and Reno. Their expenses, of course, have been charged to the taxpayers.

Chief counsel Julian G. Sourwine, once a great grizzly bear of a man, is Capitol Hill's most renowned Red-baiter. The years have whitened his hair. He has become rumpled and flabby. His fat fingers now tremble as he fidgets with his tape recorder.

Gone are the days when Sourwine struck terror in the hearts of witnesses who were hauled, willy-nilly, before the Senate Internal Security Committee. In the heyday of McCarthyism, he was so powerful that he sometimes was referred to as the 97th Senator. (There were only 96 elected Senators in those days). Today, Sourwine likes to putter in his yard and pamper the potted plants in his basement hideaway. He has always had a weakness for the gaming tables. So he also likes to slip away from Washington to play the roulette wheels in Reno, where his mother and son happen to live.

Although Reno is not known as a center of Communist subversion, Sourwine has stuck the taxpayers for his trips. One recent trip, for example, cost the taxpayers $908.63 for air fare, car rental and per diem. He didn't bill the taxpayers for per diem during the days he actually spent in Reno, but he collected for his other expeneses.

Sourwine's chief investigator, Alfonse Tarabochia, has also flown to Miami, San Juan and Mexico City at the taxpayers' expense. He owns property in Miami, and relatives live in Mexico City.

Between the two of them, Sourwine and Tarabochia have spent thousands on these junkets while their committee work has lapsed. Their most recent major report has nothing to do with Miami, San Juan, Mexico City or Reno. It is a crackpot report on marijuana, prepared mainly by an outside consultant.

Other recent reports have been the work largely of the FBI, CIA and Library of Congress. The staff, nevertheless has passed off these reports as their own research.

They use code words to hide the identity of the agencies which actually produce the reports. In the routing slips and private references, the FBI is called the "Shrine" or "Shriners" and the CIA is referred to as the "Masons."

Sourwine, a tyrant in his small corner of the Senate basement, uses the committee staff to type his personal letters, including orders for bulbs for his home garden. The staff has also typed articles which he has written anonymously for conservative publications.

One of his recent literary works, for example, was published in an anti-Communist journal called Twin Circle. Although Sourwine worked on the article and had it typed on government time, he pocketed the $100 fee he got for his efforts.

We found Sourwine surrounded by his potted plants in his dreary basement domain. The walls were adorned with inscribed photographs of the great, all attesting to the excellence and importance of Julian G. Sourwine.

He fixed our reporter, Rosanne Weissman, with his famous accusatory gaze. "I am not a chiseler," he announced. When she asked how his wife happened to wind up on the ccongressional payroll, he replied icily: "I think you're despicable."

But he conceded that he may have had his personal letters and articles typed by government clerical help. He also confessed that he played the roulette wheels both in Nevada and abroad. But he hotly insisted that he always paid off his gambling and other debts.

Tarabochia said: "There was always a reason for me going on these trips. They all relate to hearings and the obtaining of information." But he conceded he had visited his family and friends on the trips.

Meanwhile, times have changed in the Senate Internal Security Committee. The white-maned old Sourwine increasingly spends more time with a little circle of truckling applauders. It isn't like it used to be.

DIPLOMATIC BIAS: We have detected a double standard in the press treatment of left-wing and right-wing governments. Glowing reports have been published, for example, about life under Communist dictator Fidel Castro. Even North Korea's Kim Il Sung, one of the world's most repressive rulers, has received candy-coated coverage.

Yet the stories about South Korea have condemned President Park Chung Hee for abandoning democracy. When he called for a national referendum on the constitution and offered to step down if he loses the vote, the press immediately charged that the election would be "rigged."

We have written critical stories about South Korea, including a graphic account of the kidnaping of opposition leader Kim Sae Jung by the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

But President Park has promised that members of both the government and opposition parties will act as ballot box observers. He has also offered to let foreign newsmen observe the referendum and report what they see.

At least, this is more than Kim Il Sung has offered in North Korea.

THE ISSUE OF INCOME TRANSFERS

In his State of the Union address, President Ford made official his about-face and surrender to inflation. The proposed $16 billion tax rebate for 1974 and across-the-board tax cut for 1975 should stimulate the economy somewhat. But the price for that advantage is more inflation.

The President's anti-recession medicine will likely look mild indeed, however, by the time Congress has chopped it up and passed its own economic package. And the prospects are that by then the economic waters will be muddied even further by a national debate over the wisdom of wholesale income transfers from the productive sector of the economy to the non-productive sector.

"Politicians don't like to deal in the iron laws of economics because to present hard truths leaves them open to the charge of lacking compassion," editorializes the Wall Street Journal in its January 15 edition. "But we would argue that the higher and only responsible form of compassion is to have a basic concern for the health of the total economy, since economic collapse will bring suffering to everyone, and most of all the poor, the young, the weak and the aged."

Political opponents of the President, as the Journal notes, propose to create large numbers of public service jobs, restore wage and price controls on a "selective" basis, allocate capital and tax interest.

"They would step up their assault on the nation's corporations, destroying rather than rebuilding the incentives to restore production," says the Journal. "... measures to combat the current inflationary recession have to concentrate on getting the productive to produce. The poor and weak will not benefit by being given a large piece of a constantly shrinking pie."

We believe the Journal makes a good point: it is essential that our Nation's economy as a whole be encouraged to produce rather than discouraged. Congress must realize that no country in the world can solve its economic problems simply by giving an increasingly larger share to its non-productive citizens. That can only lead to economic disaster for everyone.

In an effort to comply with the Trading with the Enemy Act, Litton Industries of Beverly Hills, Calif., has blocked the sale to Castro's Cuba of $500,000 worth of office equipment by a division of its Canadian subsidiary. But the Canadian government, greedy for a possible $1 million in business that could follow the initial sale, has threatened to invoke pending legislation, should it pass, that would subject officers of Canadian firms obeying orders from non-Canadian parent companies to stiff fines and even jail sentences. That legislation is now before the Canadian Huse of Commons.

WORST IDEA OF THE YEAR

There will probably be other bad ones to come along in 1975, but the worst idea we have heard so far this year comes from the distinguished Dean of the Ivy League college of Columbia University, Dr. Peter Pouncey. His proposal, made at a meeting of the American Association of Colleges held in Washington,D. C., is that new legislation be enacted immediately to provide government subsidies to students at private colleges to match the financial support provided by state and local governments to city and state colleges.

Surely Dr. Pouncey should recognize, by now, that government money means government control, as surely as night follows day; and that a "private" school aided directly or indirectly (scholarships, for example) by "public" money will not long remain private. It will be quickly and efficently hemmed in with a thousand and one government rules, regulations, requirements and restrictions which will quickly extinguish whatever freedom the college has been able to maintain as a private institution.

The answer to the acknowledged financial plight of the private schools and colleges throughout the country is increased financial assistance from business, industry, alumni associations and foundations. Genuine sacrifices will have to be made, but it is important to keep the private schools and colleges alive. State and public institutions play an important role, but it would be a genuine tragedy and an incalculable loss to America if the private educational institutions were forced to give up their freedom as the price of survival.

NO REFORM

The removal of Representative Leonor K. Sullivan from her post as chairman of the subcommittee on consumer affairs is a disappointing exception to the generally commendable challenges to the seniority system in Congress. Her defeat had less to do with her own performance than with a byzantine shuffling of subcommittee chairmanships to make room for a supporter of Representative Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, who replaced Representative Wright Patman as chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee.

Mrs. Sullivan has, in fact, done a more than creditable job in representing the consumer interest during her years as chairman: she fought successfully for passage of the Truth in Lending and the Fair Credit Reporting Acts and she continues to enjoy the support of independent consumer groups. That she nevertheless lost her position after supporting Mr. Patman over Mr. Reuss does not redound to the credit of those who voted to depose her.

HARD HEART

Yes, we are hard hearted enough to want the restoation of capital punishment. Too many murderers go to prison and commit another murder there, or get a parole and go back to the dark, night streets and kill with knife or gun. It would be fine to have some statistics published on the number of hardened criminals who have been rehabilitated in prison, and that is what prison is supposed to do. Now we have not forgotten what God said to Cain after he had murdered his brother Abel. It's in Genesis 4, verse 15: "And the Lord said unto him (Cain): Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And the Lord set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him." But we have come to believe that the life of man is so cheap in the minds and hearts of today's criminals, it is time we put fear in their thoughts.

WHERE FOREIGN AID BILLIONS HAVE GONE

After $197 billions spent from 1945 to 1974, America's foreign aid programs are coming under fire from ordinary taxpayers to top government officials.

Behind the pressure for cutbacks is the growing feeling that the U.S. has spent too much money for the wrong purposes in the wrong places -- and has received too little in return. Also, more important than where aid money goes, some opponents argue,, is how the funds are spent. Stories of waste and corruption were recently published by The Philadelphia Inquirer which has caused more furor in Washington.

A U.N. LESSON IN DOUBLE STANDARDS

The double standard is alive and well in the United Nations. Not that there has ever been much doubt about it, but seldom has it been more glaringly apparent than in the debate over the question of expelling the Republic of South Africa because of its racial policies.

Even the conciliatory speech by South Africa's ambassador, R. F. Botha, in which he pledged his country to "do everything in our power to move away from discrimination based on race or color" -- an astounding reversal of South Africa's policy of apartheid -- had little effect on black African delegates pressing for a show-down vote on expulsion, blocked in the end only by the Security Council vetoes of the three western powers.

In the meantime, these same delegates continue to ignore far worse violations of human rights in many of their own countries that make South Africa at its worst look positively benevolent.

For example, a recent report to the U.N. by the International Commission of Jurists described the situation in Uganda as a "reign of terror." It is estimated that more than 90,000 Ugandans have been murdered or executed in the three years since General Idi Amin overthrew the government of President Oote and instituted a terrorist dictatorship. The killing has struck virtually every tribe in the country, including Amin's own tribe.

Yet not since the 1972 session, when Britain protested the persecution and expulsion of 60,000 Ugandan Asians, has a voice been raised in the U.N. to condemn Amin or the arming of his regime by the Soviet Union, Libya, Egypt and Algeria. The commission's report has been placed in the U.N.'s file-and-forget box.

The silence of the Western nations in this matter is not surprising. They have nothing to gain by sticking their necks out to protest the oppression of black Africans by black Africans.What is incomprehensible is the self-righteous blindness of the black Africans themselves.

But then, much of what passes for statesmanship in the United Nations is beyond comprehension.

THE OIL WAR

Intelligence Digest has more than once pointed to the important role the Soviet Union is playing behind the scenes in the oil and energy crisis. There has been a sudden intensification in the Soviet efforts to bring about an all-out confrontation between the Arab oil producers and the West, with open talk of "capitalist" preparations for the military seizure of the oil resources and Russia's readiness to come to the assistance of the Arabs.

Specifically, the Russian message to the Arab oil producers is, in the words of Yevgeniy Rusakov who speaks for the Kremlin, that the capitalist world has been "defeated in the first round of the struggle" and that further persserverance on the part of the Arabs combined with a refusal to be intimidated by the brinkmanship of Dr. Henry Kissinger can quickly bring final victory.

Moscow acknowledges, however, that not all oil producers -- Saudi Arabia for one -- may want to bring humiliation and destruction to the West. To overcome such qualms Russia has set out to prove to them, and especially to King Faisal and the Shah of Persia, that the Western contention that the oil crisis by itself is the major cause of the economic disruption is nothing more than a smokescreen to conceal the inevitability of the collapse of 'capitalism."

Moscow's urgent message to the Arab oil producers now is that the U.S. is already far advanced in the preparations for military intervention, possibly "as early as next spring" and probably within a year. Citing sources in Washington, the Russians maintain that the primary target will be the oil producing countries in the Persian Gulf. And, they maintain, the sole motivation for such military intervention is the Western refusal to accept the fact that "we are moving out of the times when the economically strong could dictate to the weak."

When Dr. Kissinger goes to Moscow he gets the red carpet treatment, and Brezhnev refers to him as his friend. At the same time, however, the Russians are portraying Kissinger to the oil producers as their arch-enemy, the author of the scheme to knock together a "bloc of capitalist countries" for the purpose of crushing all the aspirations of the oil producers to rule their own destiny and build, among other things, a better Middle East.

According to Moscow one of the early measures against the oil producers, planned by Kissinger, is the seizure of their capital held in Western banks. The purpose of this scare story is, of course, obviou. It is primarily to induce the Arabs to withdraw their petrodollars, thereby causing immediate economic chaos, and worse, in the West.

It is all a question of psychological warfare, this part of the Soviet message runs, in which the Wests' "defacto declaration of war" against the oil producers will prove to be no more than hot air if the oil producers stand firm and, of course, develop their solidarity with the Soviet Union. It is "sabrerattling," the Arabs above all are told, but any serious Western intention to make good these threats will be soon nullified by the "new correlation of forces in the world."

The Russians may have two views in mind, but their activities indicate that in either or both of those minds they are determined to aggravate the oil crisis and the problems arising from it. It is important to bear this in mind in view of a theory in the West now gaining ground that Russia does not actually want the economic embarrassment of West Europe or the United States as this would reduce the advantages the Soviet Union hopes to derive from trade and economic deals with the West.

Intelligence Digest says some Soviet economists may be thinking along those lines, but not the actual policy-makers.

RECIPE OF LOVE

Here's a recipe of love, designed by the Boys' Clubs of America and used daily by their Royal Oak, Michigan chapter. It is simple and, if followed closely, will yield a happy, well adjusted individual able to take his place as a responsible citizen upon reaching manhood. It is flexible enough to adapt to most communities. The Royal Oak version follows:

Take one boy with a "special" problem, i.e., deafness, mental retardation, paralysis or emotional disturbance. Add one compassionate staff member to act as his personal counselor. Stir in a heaping teaspoon of understanding. Be careful not to accidentally add pity; this boy will be expected to follow the normal rules and measure up to average expectations. It is important to find the boy's particular interests and stir in a large amount of it, for this will keep him excited about the program. Blend these ingredients well and pour into the relaxed, educational atmosphere of a Boys' Club. While the ingredients are working together to create a better individual, the associate director of the Club will have time for a weekly consultation with the boy's parents and to evaluate the boy's progress.

The mixture will take several years and--as in the other 1,000 Boys' Clubs across the U.S. serving approximately one million boys in programs of self-improvement, guidance and recreation--it will yield a healthy, well-rounded individual, eager to take his place in, and contribute to, the well-being of society. This recipe has been in existence for 112 years. Try it sometime in your own community. You'll like the results.

HIGH INTEREST CAUSED IN PART BY U.S. CREDIT

Interest on the Federal debt ($487.1 billion at the end of fiscal year 1974) has almost tripled in the last decade, according to the Tax Foundation, Inc., of New York, N.Y.

Interest alone on the debt is running at an estimated $31 billion this fiscal year, the Foundation adds. This sum has become the third largest spending category in the Federal budget equal to a $429 annual bill for each American family, and to 17 cents of every dollar collected in Federal income taxes.

The significantly higher interest rates both government and private borrowers must now pay are in part fostered by Federal borrowing demands, the Foundation states. To accommodate the almost annual shortfall between Federal outlays and income, 17 deficits in the past 20 years, Congress has "raised" the ceiling on the Federal debt 32 times.

This inflationary spending, requiring additional government borrowing in an already tight money market, has jumped the national debt over $269 billion in the last 10 years--up from $119 billion in fiscal 1964.

ANOTHER WATERGATE BREAK-IN

WASHINGTON — "I'm getting desperate," said Plotkin, an unemployed friend of mine. "I think I'll break into the Watergate."

"Are you mad?" I said. "Why would you want to break into the Watergate?"

"You can't get $200,000 for breaking into the Watergate. They don't have that kind of money around there."

"I don't expect to get it from the break-in, dummy," Plotkin said. "I plan to sell the literary rights to the robbery. I decided that for what they're paying for Watergate books I could get a Book of the Month out of it. You see, all the other Watergate books have to do with the old break-in. But my story would be about a fresh robbery, so it would be different."

"Plotkin, nobody is going to pay you a fortune to write a book about (ital) your (unital) break-in. You never worked for the White Houe."

"What's that got to do with it? I'm a better writer than most of those guys."

"Publishers are paying vast sums for Watergate books not because of the break-in but becaue so many people in power were involved in covering it up.If you broke into the Watergate, I doubt if it would get into the newspapers."

Plotkin said, "You don't know that. All you have to do is say the word 'Watergate' to a publisher, and he'll write out a check. You know what a good thief needs these days?"

"A lawyer?"

"No, a literary agent. I thought you might know someone who would handle the rights to my break-in.I thinkwe should keep the paperback contract separate from the hardback sale and put the movie rights up for auction. If we can get Robert Redford to bid against Paul Newman, we could even get a piece of the picture."

"You certainly have thought this out, Plotkin. But aren't you afraid to go to prison?"

"For breaking into Wateragte?" Plotkin laughed. "What could I get, six months?"

"You might get more than that," I warned.

"Not if I turned state's evidence and saw the error of my ways."

"But in order to turn state's evidence you'd have to implicate somebody else. Whom could you implicate?"

"Nixon," said Plotkin happily.

"How could you implicate Nixon? He would have nothing to do with your break-in."

"So what? He has a pardon from Gerry Ford so they couldn't touch him. It isn't as if I was sending an innocent man to jail."

"But, Plotkin, Nixon has had enough problems of his own without tying him in with a break-in he had nothing to do with. You have to be fair."

"Yeah, but if Nixon hadn't spent so much time covering up the other Watergate break-in and had worked on the economy instead, I might not be out of a job now."

"I don't like it," I said. "But I'll call a literary agent friend of mine and ask him for you."

I placed the call. "How much are publishers paying for Watergate books?" I asked my friend. "Yeah, it's the story of a break-in and it implicates Nixon . . . $75,000? Right, I'll get back to you."

I told Plotkin, "You can get $75,000 against 15 per cent royalties and 50 per cent of the paperback sale."

"That's all?" said Plotkin in disgust. "The hell with it. It isn't worth my time."

By JACK ANDERSON
with
Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Senate's weary old Communist-chasers, the last survivors of the McCarthy era, are losing interest in the Red Menace. They would rather bask in the tripical sun or gamble at Reno's roulette wheels.

In pursuit of the pleasant life, the Senate Internal Security Committee's top watchdogs have arranged lately to look for subversives in such vacation spots as Miami, San Juan, Mexico City and Reno. Their expenses, of course, have been charged to the taxpayers.

Chief counsel Julian G. Sourwine, once a great grizzly bear of a man, is Capitol Hill's most renowned Red-baiter. The years have whitened his hair. He has become rumpled and flabby. His fat fingers now tremble as he fidgets with his tape recorder.

Gone are the days when Sourwine struck terror in the hearts of witnesses who were hauled, willy-nilly, before the Senate Internal Security Committee. In the heyday of McCarthyism, he was so powerful that he sometimes was referred to as the 97th Senator. (There were only 96 elected Senators in those days). Today, Sourwine likes to putter in his yard and pamper the potted plants in his basement hideaway. He has always had a weakness for the gaming tables. So he also likes to slip away from Washington to play the roulette wheels in Reno, where his mother and son happen to live.

Although Reno is not known as a center of Communist subversion, Sourwine has stuck the taxpayers for his trips. One recent trip, for example, cost the taxpayers $908.63 for air fare, car rental and per diem. He didn't bill the taxpayers for per diem during the days he actually spent in Reno, but he collected for his other expeneses.

Sourwine's chief investigator, Alfonse Tarabochia, has also flown to Miami, San Juan and Mexico City at the taxpayers' expense. He owns property in Miami, and relatives live in Mexico City.

Between the two of them, Sourwine and Tarabochia have spent thousands on these junkets while their committee work has lapsed. Their most recent major report has nothing to do with Miami, San Juan, Mexico City or Reno. It is a crackpot report on marijuana, prepared mainly by an outside consultant.

Other recent reports have been the work largely of the FBI, CIA and Library of Congress. The staff, nevertheless has passed off these reports as their own research.

They use code words to hide the identity of the agencies which actually produce the reports. In the routing slips and private references, the FBI is called the "Shrine" or "Shriners" and the CIA is referred to as the "Masons."

Sourwine, a tyrant in his small corner of the Senate basement, uses the committee staff to type his personal letters, including orders for bulbs for his home garden. The staff has also typed articles which he has written anonymously for conservative publications.

One of his recent literary works, for example, was published in an anti-Communist journal called Twin Circle. Although Sourwine worked on the article and had it typed on government time, he pocketed the $100 fee he got for his efforts.

We found Sourwine surrounded by his potted plants in his dreary basement domain. The walls were adorned with inscribed photographs of the great, all attesting to the excellence and importance of Julian G. Sourwine.

He fixed our reporter, Rosanne Weissman, with his famous accusatory gaze. "I am not a chiseler," he announced. When she asked how his wife happened to wind up on the ccongressional payroll, he replied icily: "I think you're despicable."

But he conceded that he may have had his personal letters and articles typed by government clerical help. He also confessed that he played the roulette wheels both in Nevada and abroad. But he hotly insisted that he always paid off his gambling and other debts.

Tarabochia said: "There was always a reason for me going on these trips. They all relate to hearings and the obtaining of information." But he conceded he had visited his family and friends on the trips.

Meanwhile, times have changed in the Senate Internal Security Committee. The white-maned old Sourwine increasingly spends more time with a little circle of truckling applauders. It isn't like it used to be.

DIPLOMATIC BIAS: We have detected a double standard in the press treatment of left-wing and right-wing governments. Glowing reports have been published, for example, about life under Communist dictator Fidel Castro. Even North Korea's Kim Il Sung, one of the world's most repressive rulers, has received candy-coated coverage.

Yet the stories about South Korea have condemned President Park Chung Hee for abandoning democracy. When he called for a national referendum on the constitution and offered to step down if he loses the vote, the press immediately charged that the election would be "rigged."

We have written critical stories about South Korea, including a graphic account of the kidnaping of opposition leader Kim Sae Jung by the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

But President Park has promised that members of both the government and opposition parties will act as ballot box observers. He has also offered to let foreign newsmen observe the referendum and report what they see.

At least, this is more than Kim Il Sung has offered in North Korea.

Boley pleads not guilty in shooting death

BENTON--Dwain Boley, 47, charged with the shooting death of his son, Danny Boley, 26, on Nov. 18, 1974, was formally arraigned in Scott County Circuit Court last week. He entered a plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of mental defect.

Trial was set for March 4.

A motion for a mental examination filed by the defense was approved.

The Scott County sheriff's department investigated and reported the shooting occurred after the elder Boley and his wife started fighting upon arriving home following an evening out in which they had been drinking.

The younger Boley was shot once in the chest with a .22-caliber revolver when he tried to intervene in the argument, the sheriff's department said.

The shooting occurred about 2 a.m., and the son died about 30 minutes later at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Council oks appointments

BERNIE--The city council Monday night approved appointments of Benard Huels as president of the park board and Robert Johnson Jr. as a new fireman replacing Terry Duffie who has moved from the city.

The council hired Danny Burch as an installer-trainee under the emergency employment program.

Mayor B.B. Woods announced the city has received its quarterly revenue funds in the amount of $7,189.

The council approved a contract with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission to update the city development plan.

The council passed an ordinance approving a contract between the city of Bernie and the city of Campbell, where as the city of Bernie will provide wastewater-tests for the city of Campbell.

An election was called for April 8 at which time an alderman will be elected from each of the city's three wards.

Cooter man found dead

COOTER--A Cooter man was found dead in a field near his home Monday.

The body of Sam Greenleaf, 78, was found at 11 a.m. after he had apparently died from natural causes while walking home from the Roosevelt Thomas home.

His body was found about two miles east of Interstate 55 near Route C in Pemiscot County. Greenleaf was last seen alive at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The body was taken to Dean Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

Murder trial rescheduled

BENTON--Trial of Robert Blackman of Benton Route One on a murder charge filed in connection with the death of Julie Lee Thompson of Haywood City on Nov. 28, 1974, has been reset for March 10 in Scott County Circuit Court.

Trial was originally set for Jan. 31 before Judge Marshall Craig.

Dexter council sets March 4 deadline

DEXTER — The City Council voted Monday night to set the filing deadline for candidates seeking election in the April general election.

The closing date for candidates to file was set for 5 p.m. March 14. Three aldermen, one from each ward, will be elected in this year's election. These offices are currently held by Jack Smarr, Eldon Cooper and James Williams.

Chief of Police Ken Tippen announced that, beginning today, roadblocks will be set up and citizens will be checked for city stickers.

Mayor Willia Conner read a letter from Mrs. Jim Vaughn, a rual Dexter woman, who suggested that the old city jail be converted into public restrooms for the convenience of downtown shoppers. The council agreed it was an excellent idea, but suggested that if the jail is made into restrooms that they be kept locked at night to avoid vandalism. The matter was tabled until the Feb. 17 meeting.

The council approved the appointment of Bob Barker as a new city dispatcher and Scott Blankenship to the Auxiliary Police.

The decision whether or not to close to vehicle traffic the alley running north from the old jail was postponed until Feb. 17. In a previous letter to the Board of Aldermen, City Attorney Paul McGee, stated that after a thorough check of the records at Bloomfield, he discovered the alley was not owned by private individuals as the council was led to believe. The city may use the alley for the unloading of freight.

The council also postponed a decision on whether or not to apply for federal and state funds under the new Federal Aid Urban Program. One of the requirements is that Dexter extend its city limits to the south to take in the entire south end of Walnut St. Mayor Conner and the entire board of aldermen voiced the opinion that annexation would be too expensive without a guarantee of receiving the funds.

A decision was delayed until it can be learned if the anexation is necessary under the present requirements.

The council passed a resolution to install 211 feet of additional sewer line to assist with sewer installation to serve the new junior high school. The city had planned to install additional lines at a future date to serve the entire area, but decided to proceed with the 211 feet of sewer line as requested by the school. Laying the sewer line now will mean a savings of at least $2,000. The school will pay a portion of the installation charge.

In other action the council voted to pay the city's required 10 per cent for recently ordered police equipment. The 90 per cent federally funded equipment will cost approximately $9,000.

Police chief Tippen was asked to talk with the residents of an apartment building at Catalpha and W. Grant St. and ask for their cooperation in not parking too close to the intersection. The parking problem has resulted in hazardous conditions for persons traveling on Catalpha St.

The council also discussed the problem of dogs running loose in the area of Pine, Olive and Day St. and four abandoned cars located at 402 N. Poplar St. No action was taken.

Total disbursements for the month of January was $109,373.18.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A total of $100,000 was raised by recycling between 6,000 and 7,000 empty CARE cooking oil tins and flour bags, at 5 and 10 cents respectively. The money is being used to help support CARE food and nutrition education projects in India, where the agency feeds almost 11 million people daily.

Boley pleads not guilty in shooting death

BENTON--Dwain Boley, 47, charged with the shooting death of his son, Danny Boley, 26, on Nov. 18, 1974, was formally arraigned in Scott County Circuit Court last week. He entered a plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of mental defect.

Trial was set for March 4.

A motion for a mental examination filed by the defense was approved.

The Scott County sheriff's department investigated and reported the shooting occurred after the elder Boley and his wife started fighting upon arriving home following an evening out in which they had been drinking.

The younger Boley was shot once in the chest with a .22-caliber revolver when he tried to intervene in the argument, the sheriff's department said.

The shooting occurred about 2 a.m., and the son died about 30 minutes later at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Council oks appointments

BERNIE--The city council Monday night approved appointments of Benard Huels as president of the park board and Robert Johnson Jr. as a new fireman replacing Terry Duffie who has moved from the city.

The council hired Danny Burch as an installer-trainee under the emergency employment program.

Mayor R.B. Woods announced the city has received its quarterly revenue funds in the amount of $7,189.

The council approved a contract with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission to update the city development plan.

The council passed an ordinance approving a contract between the city of Bernie and the city of Campbell, where as the city of Bernie will provide wastewater-tests for the city of Campbell.

An election was called for April 8 at which time an alderman will be elected from each of the city's three wards.

Murder trial rescheduled

BENTON--Trial of Robert Blackman of Benton Route One on a murder charge filed in connection with the death of Julie Lee Thompson of Haywood City on Nov. 28, 1974, has been reset for March 10 in Scott County Circuit Court.

Trial was originally set for Jan. 31 before Judge Marshall Craig.

Dexter council sets March 4 deadline

DEXTER — The City Council voted Monday night to set the filing deadline for candidates seeking election in the April general election.

The closing date for candidates to file was set for 5 p.m. March 14. Three aldermen, one from each ward, will be elected in this year's election. These offices are currently held by Jack Smarr, Eldon Cooper and James Williams.

Chief of Police Ken Tippen announced that, beginning today, roadblocks will be set up and citizens will be checked for city stickers.

Mayor Willia Conner read a letter from Mrs. Jim Vaughn, a rual Dexter woman, who suggested that the old city jail be converted into public restrooms for the convenience of downtown shoppers. The council agreed it was an excellent idea, but suggested that if the jail is made into restrooms that they be kept locked at night to avoid vandalism. The matter was tabled until the Feb. 17 meeting.

The council approved the appointment of Bob Barker as a new city dispatcher and Scott Blankenship to the Auxiliary Police.

The decision whether or not to close to vehicle traffic the alley running north from the old jail was postponed until Feb. 17. In a previous letter to the Board of Aldermen, City Attorney Paul McGee, stated that after a thorough check of the records at Bloomfield, he discovered the alley was not owned by private individuals as the council was led to believe. The city may use the alley for the unloading of freight.

The council also postponed a decision on whether or not to apply for federal and state funds under the new Federal Aid Urban Program. One of the requirements is that Dexter extend its city limits to the south to take in the entire south end of Walnut St. Mayor Conner and the entire board of aldermen voiced the opinion that annexation would be too expensive without a guarantee of receiving the funds.

A decision was delayed until it can be learned if the anexation is necessary under the present requirements.

The council passed a resolution to install 211 feet of additional sewer line to assist with sewer installation to serve the new junior high school. The city had planned to install additional lines at a future date to serve the entire area, but decided to proceed with the 211 feet of sewer line as requested by the school. Laying the sewer line now will mean a savings of at least $2,000. The school will pay a portion of the installation charge.

In other action the council voted to pay the city's required 10 per cent for recently ordered police equipment. The 90 per cent federally funded equipment will cost approximately $9,000.

Police chief Tippen was asked to talk with the residents of an apartment building at Catalpha and W. Grant St. and ask for their cooperation in not parking too close to the intersection. The parking problem has resulted in hazardous conditions for persons traveling on Catalpha St.

The council also discussed the problem of dogs running loose in the area of Pine, Olive and Day St. and four abandoned cars located at 402 N. Poplar St. No action was taken.

Total disbursements for the month of January was $109,373.18.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A total of $100,000 was raised by recycling between 6,000 and 7,000 empty CARE cooking oil tins and flour bags, at 5 and 10 cents respectively. The money is being used to help support CARE food and nutrition education projects in India, where the agency feeds almost 11 million people daily.

Clark, Jones exchange vows

NEW MADRID-Miss Tammy Rene Clark and Johnny Minor Jones were united in marriage Jan. 10 in a candlelight ceremony in the New Madrid Baptist Church. The Rev. Mike Hawkins of Sikeston performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. "Tip" Clark of New Madrid, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rosco Jones of Kewanee and the late Rosco Jones.

Mrs. Nita Smotherman of Sikeston provided nuptial music. Gary LaVan Clark, brother of the bride, sang "A Time For Us" and Mrs. Teresa Blunt, sister of the bride, sang "Tammy".

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a formal gown of ivory delustered satin styled in a princess silhouette. Her tiered chapel-length veil was attached to a lace Juliet cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of bridal white roses and baby's breath.

Kem Clark, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Lisa Copeland and Cathy Chamberlain were bridesmaids. Their gowns of green, pink and blue, respectively, were styled similarly to the bride's, and each carried a single white rose.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of ice blue and a pink rose corsage. She was presented a long-stemmed red rose by the couple at the close of the wedding ceremony.

The groom chose his brother, Dewey Jones, as best man. Groomsmen were David Lewis and Danny Clark, brother of the bride. Ushers were Gee Dawson and Dean Pipkin.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the lower level of the church. Mrs. Shirley Jones, sister-in-law of the groom, attended the guest book. Young man says 'the tease' selfish, uses body to punish

Dear Ann Landers: You'll be hearing plenty about that letter from the 18-year-old "fun-loving" virgin who is so proud of herself for keeping "everything intact." It seems her boyfriend wants her to give in, but she is determined to take her virginity to the marriage bed. I quote: "I've already told him that if the torture gets too much, he can shove off. But he still sticks like flypaper."

In high school, we called those types "Professional Virgins." They drove guys crazy, flirting and teasing. They went just as far as they could without crossing the line -- with no regard whatever for the agony and frustration of the poor fellow who was expected to "cool it" on demand.

Girls who behave that way are extremely selfish. Moreover, they usually hate men and use their bodies to punish them. If I were in that dude's place, I'd shove off. NO girl is better than a tease. -- In The Know

Dear In: You're right about the mail. I heard plenty about "thetease" and most of the letters came from high school and college students (males) who called her names the papers wouldn't print. Thanks for your letter. It was the best of the bunch.

Dear Ann Landers: Re your column about purse-snatchers: After having had mine snatched four times, I decided the best way to avoid a fifth such occurrence was not to carry one.

My keys, change, and a few dollar bills go into one pocket, my lipstick and compact and hankie go into another pocket. My credit cards I leave home unless I intend to go shopping, then I put the two or three I might need in my shoe.

I haven't been robbed since, and I feel a lot safer. These days a junkie in "Fun City" would just as soon kill you for your pocketbook as look at you. It's amazing how much stuff women carry in their purses that they really don't need. Sign me -- Fearless and Happier

Dear F and H: I agree. Just for the fun of it, ladies, look inside yourpurse right now and you'll discover the writer is correct. Too many of us are slaves to habit. The habit of carrying a purse can be broken if a woman puts her mind to it.

Dear Ann Landers: There is this neat girl I've known for quite a while. She is cool, with it, and has lots of friends. Everyone enjoys having her around. She's the kind your mother would love. The problem:

Her grammar is something you have to hear to believe. This chick is a high school sophomore yet she says things like, "Me and him went skating," or, "We was walking arm in arm." This afternoon she was showing me two poems she had written and asked if I would tell her "which is worser"?

Is there any hope for this girl? What can be done to get her to speak decent English? How did she get to be a high school sophomore when she couldn't pass a fourth-grade English grammar test? Please answer these questions. I'd like to help her. -- Embarrassed Friend

Dear Friend: I'd like an answer to that last question myself. I receive letters every day from high school students whose grammar (and spelling) is outof this world.

The only solution for your friend is to get private tutoring, work like a dog, and keep at it until she is able to overcome her deeply ingrained speech habits. I hope she is willing to do it because if she isn't she is destined to go through life sounding like an ignoramus.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Fredom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

When cooking with milk, put a little water in the pan first and heat it to boiling, then add the milk. It will keep the milk from burning or sticking to the bottom of the pan.

When boiling eggs, add a little salt to the water andthe shells will slip off easily. To boil an egg that is cracked, add a teaspoonful of salt to the water and the egg will stay in the shell.

Shootout at LHS

By RON JAYNES

Call the dock! There's definately going to be a shootout at the Lilbourn high school gym tonight!

While the majority of the roundball fans throughout Southeast Missouri have been anxiously awaiting the meeting of the LHS Panthers and Kelly Hawks, most observers have overlooked tonight's big encounter that matches Lilbourn against North Pemiscot.

Coach David McMahon's Mustangs, galloping along at a 15-1 season clip, have the honor of claiming to be the last team to defeat the defending class 2A state champions -- and that was 30 games ago.

Lilbourn on the other hand has the honor of laying claim to the Mustangs only blemish on its 1974-75 schedule.

So the score seems even at 1-1.

The North Pemiscot Mustangs will visit the LHS Panthers tonight seeking revenge for an earlier loss in the NPHS tournament this season which the Mustangs led by as much as 13 points in the fourth period before the Panthers pulled it out in the last minute.

Sports corner

The Mustangs were one of the two teams to defeat Lilbourn last season along with Sikeston.

The Panthers have had some close contest this season but have had enough scoring ability to pull out of defeat.

NPHS has been able to give the Panthers trouble because of the defense they employ. Coach Dave McMahon uses a 2-1-2 zone which forces the opponents outside and takes away the 15 foot jump shots that most tem like to concentrate on.

Lilbourn likes to take the good long jump shot and the Mustangs like to push them back out of their normal shooting range.

North Pemiscot has a good shooter with good rebounding power in 6-3 Ray Norris. Jerry Stewart is as good a shooter as there is in southeast Missouri and he has great jumping ability on the jump shot which makes him hard to defense.

Lilbourn likes to use a pressure defense with the guards pressing full court.

After the Mustangs defeated the Panthers on the Mustangs home court last year the Panthers had an easy time beating NPHS in the regional tournament at Kennett later on in the Year.

But this is 1975 isn't it!

KHS favored Friday

By BILL "MR. BASKETBALL" HARRISON

With the completion of the Stoddard County tournament Saturday night there remains only two more conference tournaments to be completed in the area before the regional tournaments begin the last week in February and the first week in March. The Dunklin County tournament at Senath and the Bootheel Conference tournament at North Pemiscot begin February 10.

The teams in the Scott-Mississippi and the Stoddard County conferences can settle down to their regular schedule before the regionals get underway and strengthen their varsity teams with the addition of some junior varsity players if need be.

I must be getting into my predictions for the week now. There are a lot of games on tap both Tuesday and Friday night with a invitational at Zalma and the Big Springs conference tournament. Thers are a few games scheduled for Thursday.

TUESDAY

Twin Rivers at Holcomb---The Hornets have no chance----80-60.

Scott Central at Oran---- The Braves have beaten the Eagles twice at Oran in two different tournaments already so they should do it again if they want to---80-77.

South Pemiscot at Portageville--I pick the Bulldogs---66-60.

Risco at Campbell----The Tigers will maul the Camels----85-60.

North Pemiscot at Lilbourn---This will be the top game of the night. The Mustangs are rated fifth in the state in Class A and the Panthers are rated first in class AA. They met once before in the NPHS tournament and the Mustangs let victory slip away in the last minute. Lilbourn's style is to play as hard as they have to to win. No matter how many the Mustangs score the Panthers will eat them up---75-70.

Pemiscot County at Hayti---Hayti by enough----75-50.

Leopold at Chaffee---The Red Devils can beat Leopold easily---80-60. Kelly at Delta----This should be a high scoring game.

Kelly has more board strength and should win----80-77.

Parma at Caruthersville----The Tigers will jump all over the Pirates--75-65.

Matthews at Bernie---The Pirates are a better shooting team than the Mules----85-70.

Senath at Malden---These two teams have contrasting styles of play---I pick Malden---80 -65.

Jackson at Sikeston----The Bulldogs have had their troubles lately to say the least---Jackson is big but not that good. I'm going with Sikeston because of home court---70-66.

Cooter at Southland---Cooter is my pick---67-60.

Doniphan at Puxico---The Indians have had some personnel changes that doesn't help---Doniphan should win easily----80-70.

Charleston at Perryville-- The Bluejays will win without much trouble---75-60.

Notre Dame at Cape Central---The Bulldogs have beaten Central once and should do it again----70-65.

THURSDAY

Risco at Cooter---Poor Cooter for the second time----80-55.

Dexter at Sikeston---The Bulldogs' home court will not aid them in this one. Dexter is the better team----72-67.

Sports beat

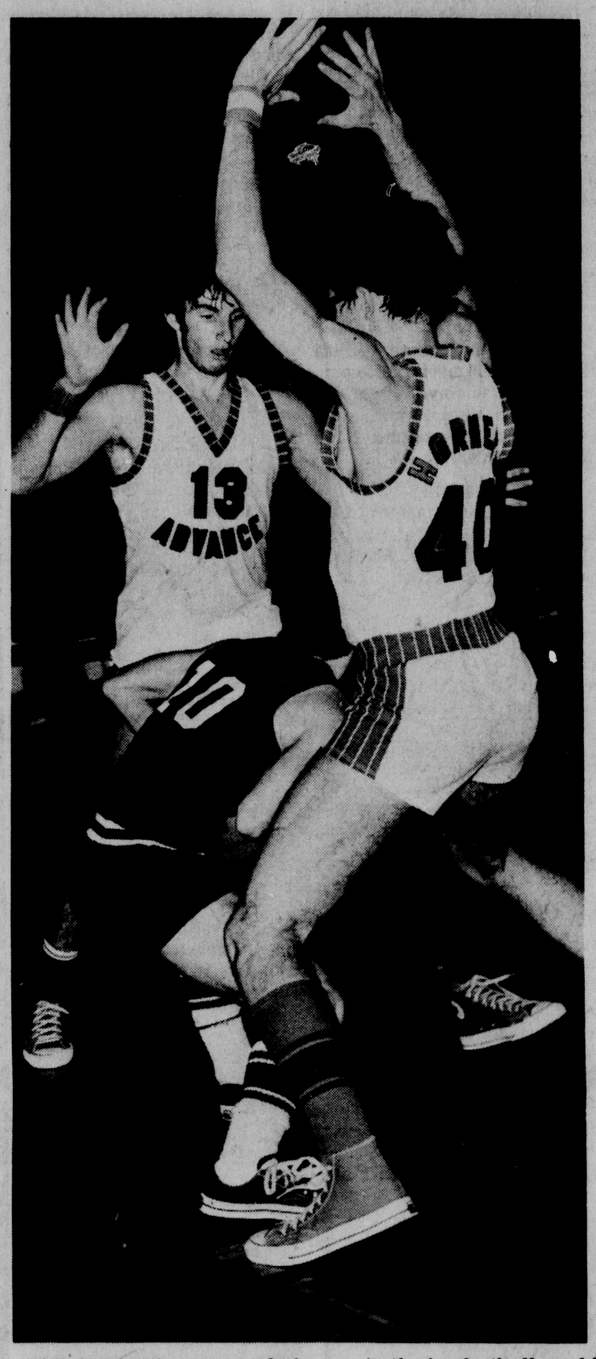
Van Buren wins HC

VAN BUREN — In a Homecoming game for Van Buren, the Bulldogs went to the celebration dance happy after posting an 80-63 breather over Summersville during the weekend.

VBHS outscored Summersville in every quarter to take the easy win.

Chuck Clay paved the victory road with 19 points, while for the losers it was Red Plowman with 23.

The junior varsity game was not so happyt as host VAn Buren suffered a 77-37 wipe-out.



This is what is commonly known in the basketball world as a trap and 5-4 Tim Holden (10) of the Dexter Bearcats is the victim. Advance used the zone trap defense effectively in defeating the Bearcats Saturday night for the championship of the Stoddard County tournament at Bloomfield.

SHS makes change

The Sikeston Bulldogs will be looking for a new lease on their basketball lives this week . The Dexter Bearcats visit the fieldhouse Thursday night but they have an important date with the Jackson Indians tonight. The Bulldogs have lost six of their last seven games. Dexter just finished second in the Stoddard County tournament last week.

The Bearcats are a solid fundamental team with plenty of height and scoring power. The top scorer for the Bearcats will be forward Don Reynolds. The big six-foot-two inch forward has been starting for coach Jim Hall since freshman year and has been the big man inside.

This year the Bearcats have 6-4 Mark Guethle at the center position and 6-2 Mark Clippard at the other forward. Tim Holden is one of the smallest players in the area at guard. The 5-4 speedster is a good ball handler and good outside shooter from the 20-foot range.

Dexter likes to play good ball control and work for the good percentage shots in close to the basket. The Bearcats are especially adept at picking a man to man defense apart.

Sikeston likes to run and shoot the ball before the defense has time to set up.

The game had originally been scheduled for Friday night, and the District wrestling tournament forced the change.

Favorites advance

ZALMA — The second and third seeded teams in the Zalma Invitational Tourney had little trouble in posting victories here Monday as both Leopold and College High swept to big wins.

Leopold ran off and left St. Vincents at the starting gate to blitz to an 82-47 win, while College High toyed with Marquand 81-66 in the opening game.

LHS dominated both boards and the firepower as they took the opening quarter 24-9 and outscored the Indians each of the following periods to claim the win. Leopold exactly doubled St. Vincents efforts on the game, outscoring the Indians from the field 34 to 17, and from the free throw line 14 to 7. Larry Eftink turned in the top performance for LHS with 18 pointers, while Charlie Owen was high for St. Vincents with 12.

College High also used a strong first quarter and a 17-8 advantage to lead the way to triumph. The Preps took each quarter but the last as their reserves played to a 25-25 stand-off with Marquand for the final 81-66 win. Mike Cook posted game honors for College High with 22, while Lonnie Masters pumped in 18 to lead MHS.

SHS host district wrestling meet

By DALE LEWIS

State District 4A Wrestling Competition gets underway this Friday night at the Sikeston Senior High Fieldhouse. Matmen from twleve 4A schools will converge at 6 p.m. for opening matches that will conclude with the finals Saturday night at 6:30 p.m. Teams entered in the meet include defending champion Lindberg of St. Louis, Fox of Arnold, Farmington, Sikeston, Northeast, Poplar Bluff, Mehlville, Oakville, Vianney, and Webster Groves.

Fox and Sikeston, who finished second and third in last year's meet, will be out to improve on that mark in this year's mat session.

Again as last year, the Bulldogs are finding the going tough the week before the District Playoffs.

According to Coach John Heacox, several of the SHS team members are running "touch-and-go" with the flu this week. Among those hit were Bill Paxton, Kenny Hodgkiss, and Scott Hutchison, and Coach Heacox said it looked like the "bug" might go thru the whole team. Also doubtful this week is David Overby, who is still recuperating from a staph infection that sidelined him for the final regular season match against Ste. Genevieve.

Hodgkiss and Hutchison were two of the four matmen who placed in last year's District meet for the Bulldogs, taking third and second in their respective divisions. Pending a full recovery before Fridays starting time, their efforts should be the nucleus to a respectable showing for Sikeston. Ron Blankenship and Mike Crabb, both of whom finished fourth in their respective divisions last year, are back again and expected to operate at full steam by match time.

Coach Heacox is optimistic for the Bulldogs hopes in the District Meet, even with the "young" team of freshmen, sophomores, and a few juniors that he has.

Whatever the outcome, Sikeston wrestling fans will see some topflight high school wrestling this coming Friday night beginning at 6 p.m. The Bulldog opponents in opening matches will be determined by drawings for the meet, scheduled for Wednesday night. Watch this paper for further announcements.

Dogs chase Mules

Rallies were the order of the day at the Sikeston high school field house during junior high cage action Monday afternoon.

Coach Ford Morgan's eighth grade basketball team used a half court zone press to rally from a 27-19 halftime deficit and defeat Poplar Bluff 45-41 at the fieldhouse Monday night.

Poplar Bluff gained a 9-7 margin in the first period as both teams had difficulty finding the hole in the basket but the visitors found a hole in the Sikeston defense in the second period and outscored Sikeston 18-12.

Coach Morgan tried the zone press in the third period and Poplar Bluff managed only four points while Sikeston was scoring 11.

Sikeston trailed 31-30 at the start of the fourth period but with Jeff Young and Sam Warfield doing the bulk of the scoring Coach Morgan's team was able to pull the game out of the fire. Warfield scored 15 points and Young scored 10 in the game. Sikeston shot 18 fieldgoals to 14 for Poplar Bluff.

The loss was the third for Poplar Bluff against seven wins and Sikeston ended their season with a 5-4 slate.

The Sikeston ninth grade basketball team had to make a second half comeback to defeat Poplar Bluff 51-46 at the fieldhouse Monday night.

Poplar Bluff has a 13-2 record for the season and Sikeston is 8-4 but both Poplar Bluff losses were at the hands of Sikeston.

Sikeston had a poor first period in which they only scored six points but came alive the last three to win.

Sikeston's five point margin of victory came as a result of free throws as both teams shot 23 fieldgoals but Sikeston hit five three throws to none for Poplar Bluff.

Center Steve Sims had another hot night from the field scoring 18 points. Bidewell scored 20 for Poplar Bluff.

Sikeston hosts East Prairie at 4 p.m. Thursday night.

Shootout at LHS

By RON JAYNES

Call the dock! There's definately going to be a shootout at the Lilbourn high school gym tonight!

While the majority of the roundball fans throughout Southeast Missouri have been anxiously awaiting the meeting of the LHS Panthers and Kelly Hawks, most observers have overlooked tonight's big encounter that matches Lilbourn against North Pemiscot.

Coach David McMahon's Mustangs, galloping along at a 15-1 season clip, have the honor of claiming to be the last team to defeat the defending class 2A state champions -- and that was 30 games ago.

Lilbourn on the other hand has the honor of laying claim to the Mustangs only blemish on its 1974-75 schedule.

So the score seems even at 1-1.

The North Pemiscot Mustangs will visit the LHS Panthers tonight seeking revenge for an earlier loss in the NPHS tournament this season which the Mustangs led by as much as 13 points in the fourth period before the Panthers pulled it out in the last minute.

Sports corner

The Mustangs were one of the two teams to defeat Lilbourn last season along with Sikeston.

The Panthers have had some close contest this season but have had enough scoring ability to pull out of defeat.

NPHS has been able to give the Panthers trouble because of the defense they employ. Coach Dave McMahon uses a 2-1-2 zone which forces the opponents outside and takes away the 15 foot jump shots that most tem like to concentrate on.

Lilbourn likes to take the good long jump shot and the Mustangs like to push them back out of their normal shooting range.

North Pemiscot has a good shooter with good rebounding power in 6-3 Ray Norris. Jerry Stewart is as good a shooter as there is in southeast Missouri and he has great jumping ability on the jump shot which makes him hard to defense.

Lilbourn likes to use a pressure defense with the guards pressing full court.

After the Mustangs defeated the Panthers on the Mustangs home court last year the Panthers had an easy time beating NPHS in the regional tournament at Kennett later on in the Year.

But this is 1975 isn't it!

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1975. There are 330 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1789, George Washington was elected the first U.S. president, with all 69 presidential electors casting their votes for the general.

On this date in 1776, during the American revolution, American troops occupied New York City.

In 1783, hostilities ended between the United States and England.

In 1861, delegates from six seceding Southern states formed the Confederacy at Montgomery, Ala.

In 1887, the Interstate Commerce Commission was established.

In 1901, a campaign to wipe out yellow fever in Cuba was begun by U.S. Army Maj. William Gorgas.

In 1948, the island of Ceylon became a free, self-governing dominion within the British Commonwealth.

Ten years ago: President Charles de Gaulle of France proposed a five-power conference, which would include Communist China, to resolve problems of the United Nations. The United States reacted cooly.

Five years ago: American and British space experts said they believed the Soviets had built and successfully tested a satellite capable of intercepting and destroying other orbiting spacecraft.

One year ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko began talks in Washington with President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Today's birthdays: Feminist Betty Friedan is 54. Former West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard is 78.

Prayer

"Under his direction the whole body is fitted together perfectly ... so that the whole body is healthy an growing and full of love." (Ephesians 4:16 TLB)

PRAYER: Dear Father, help me know how important I am to You in the game of life. Forgive me when I sit on the sidelines watching people try to do work that only I can and ought to do. Amen.

Dr. Lamb

Don't change dose without doc's advice

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 60 and my doctor has me taking one digitalis tablet a day. I've taken it for more than two years now for irregular beats of the heart. He says my heart is weak, but I have read that taking digitalis for a long period of time can cause digitalis poisoning with serious heart symptoms. Is this true? If there are any side effects what are they?

DEAR READER — Anyone taking digitalis or similar medicines should never, absolutely never, stop or decrease the dosage without their doctor's advice. To do so is an invitation to disaster.

It is true that too much digitalis can cause digitalis poisoning. You can also be poisoned by too much aspirin, too much coffee and too much oxygen in the air you breathe.

There is a good range between the amount of digitalis you need for most heart conditions and the amount that causes toxicity. Your doctor strives to regulate you on an amount that will help you but won't harm you. When he has you regulated you will not develop toxicity simply because you continue to take the medicine year after year. If your requirements change he may need to change the dose.

Digitalis in the proper amounts increases the strength of your heart and may help to control certain irregularities. When you take too much it may cause irregularities of the heart. The type of irregularities and other changes on your cardiogram tell the doctor if you are getting too much digitalis, if that should occur. Stay on your medicine, unless your doctor tells you otherwise.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there any danger in taking a daily tablet of vitamin B-12, combined with Brewer's dried yeast? Each tablet contains 10 micrograms of B-12 and five grains of Brewer's dried yeast.

Is it possible that the vitamins and yeast have added to my vitality and better overall feeling (less fatigue)? This is being taken without my physician's advice — who was unable to pin point a reason for my "blah" feeling. Hemoglobin count is good. Or, could it be psychological?

DEAR READER — The amounts you are taking cannot be harmful to you. The excess that your body doesn't need is simply eliminated and not stored. They might not do you any good either.

The extra vitamin B-12 and thiamine in the yeast will only help you if you were low on these substances. With a normal hemoglobin I doubt that you had any significant deficiency in B-12. Some people do not eat a properly balanced diet and are low on thiamine. You could probably have done the same thing with an improvement in your diet if you really had a deficient intake of thiamine.

You are pretty smart. Most people who feel better are sure it is the effect of the medicine. The simple truth is that people often feel better when they do something for themselves or their doctors give them something, whether or not that something has any real action on the body. It can be the psychological benefits of doing something. This has a lot to do with that old-fashioned human commodity called "faith," whether it is faith in a medicine, a procedure, or a doctor. Never underestimate its importance.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

What's the law?

The case of the musical barn

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Bachelor Bob bought himself a cooperative apartment and immediately converted it into a real swinging pad. Blondes, redheads and brunettes were as common in his apartment as vanilla, strawberry and chocolate in an ice cream parlor.

He encountered one drawback, however, to his operation. A building regulation prohibited the playing of music, Bob challenged the validity of the regulation in court.

"Music can't be outlawed," he complained to a judge. "It's one of the better things in life. In fact, when I hear a gal singing in the bathtub, it's my ear that I put to the keyhole."

"He knew about the regulation before he bought the apartment," responded the building's managing agent. "If he didn't like it, he shouldn't have moved in. As for the regulation inself, it's perfectly sane and logical. Music is like a malady to other tenants who like peace and quiet. They shouldn't have to put up with it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the musical ban?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while tenants may be prohibited from making unreasonable noise, a blanket ban on music is too much. While even the daily continuous playing of Van Cliburn can be too much of a good thing, neighbors and noise are one of the penalties of modern civilization which one has to bear.

Prayer

"Under his direction the whole body is fitted together perfectly ... so that the whole body is healthy an growing and full of love." (Ephesians 4:16 TLB)

PRAYER: Dear Father, help me know how important I am to You in the game of life. Forgive me when I sit on the sidelines watching people try to do work that only I can and ought to do. Amen.

Dr. Lamb

Don't change dose without doc's advice

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 60 and my doctor has me taking one digitalis tablet a day. I've taken it for more than two years now for irregular beats of the heart. He says my heart is weak, but I have read that taking digitalis for a long period of time can cause digitalis poisoning with serious heart symptoms. Is this true? If there are any side effects what are they?

DEAR READER — Anyone taking digitalis or similar medicines should never, absolutely never, stop or decrease the dosage without their doctor's advice. To do so is an invitation to disaster.

It is true that too much digitalis can cause digitalis poisoning. You can also be poisoned by too much aspirin, too much coffee and too much oxygen in the air you breathe.

There is a good range between the amount of digitalis you need for most heart conditions and the amount that causes toxicity. Your doctor strives to regulate you on an amount that will help you but won't harm you. When he has you regulated you will not develop toxicity simply because you continue to take the medicine year after year. If your requirements change he may need to change the dose.

Digitalis in the proper amounts increases the strength of your heart and may help to control certain irregularities. When you take too much it may cause irregularities of the heart. The type of irregularities and other changes on your cardiogram tell the doctor if you are getting too much digitalis, if that should occur. Stay on your medicine, unless your doctor tells you otherwise.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there any danger in taking a daily tablet of vitamin B-12, combined with Brewer's dried yeast? Each tablet contains 10 micrograms of B-12 and five grains of Brewer's dried yeast.

Is it possible that the vitamins and yeast have added to my vitality and better overall feeling (less fatigue)? This is being taken without my physician's advice — who was unable to pin point a reason for my "blah" feeling. Hemoglobin count is good. Or, could it be psychological?

DEAR READER — The amounts you are taking cannot be harmful to you. The excess that your body doesn't need is simply eliminated and not stored. They might not do you any good either.

The extra vitamin B-12 and thiamine in the yeast will only help you if you were low on these substances. With a normal hemoglobin I doubt that you had any significant deficiency in B-12. Some people do not eat a properly balanced diet and are low on thiamine. You could probably have done the same thing with an improvement in your diet if you really had a deficient intake of thiamine.

You are pretty smart. Most people who feel better are sure it is the effect of the medicine. The simple truth is that people often feel better when they do something for themselves or their doctors give them something, whether or not that something has any real action on the body. It can be the psychological benefits of doing something. This has a lot to do with that old-fashioned human commodity called "faith," whether it is faith in a medicine, a procedure, or a doctor. Never underestimate its importance.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

What's the law?

The case of the musical barn

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Bachelor Bob bought himself a cooperative apartment and immediately converted it into a real swinging pad. Blondes, redheads and brunettes were as common in his apartment as vanilla, strawberry and chocolate in an ice cream parlor.

He encountered one drawback, however, to his operation. A building regulation prohibited the playing of music, Bob challenged the validity of the regulation in court.

"Music can't be outlawed," he complained to a judge. "It's one of the better things in life. In fact, when I hear a gal singing in the bathtub, it's my ear that I put to the keyhole."

"He knew about the regulation before he bought the apartment," responded the building's managing agent. "If he didn't like it, he shouldn't have moved in. As for the regulation inself, it's perfectly sane and logical. Music is like a malady to other tenants who like peace and quiet. They shouldn't have to put up with it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the musical ban?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while tenants may be prohibited from making unreasonable noise, a blanket ban on music is too much. While even the daily continuous playing of Van Cliburn can be too much of a good thing, neighbors and noise are one of the penalties of modern civilization which one has to bear.

TB hospitals may get boost

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Measures authorizing rejection of rules and regulations issued to enforce state laws by the Missouri Legislature and a 66 per cent boost in state aid to county tuberculosis hospitals have been given tentative approval by lawmakers.

In action Monday, the Senate tacked on to a bill regulating grain moisture content the provisions for review of rules issued by the Agriculture Department to carry out the law.

The provision, commonly known as the Melton Amendment for Sen. Emory Melton, R-Cassville, who proposed it in passed sessions to give the legislature more control, was a modification of those past attempts.

It calls for rules to stand ratified unless the legislature moves by bill or resolution to overturn or amend them. Melton claimed that while departments and agencies are allowed rule-making power, that power oftgen is used to circumvent the intent of the legislature in passing laws.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond vetoed the grain moisture content bill last year because it contained that provision and has voiced objections to the same sections in other measures.

The House agreed to boost state payments from $15 to $25 a day per indigent patients as a means of helping county TB hospitals cope with rising costs. The measure will benefit two hospitals, one in the St. Louis area and one in Kansas City, which are the only county TB hospitals in the state.

The measure originally called for a boost to $40 a day per patient but the amendment was accepted because it proposed a hike more in line with available state revenues.

It would also increase from $5 to $8 a week the state aid to such hospitals for outpatient care.

Police car approved

NEW MADRID--The City Council Monday night approved the purchase of an additional police car.

The purchase from New Madrid Auto Sales was approved at a cost of $5,300. The only other bidder was Heims Motor Co.

The appointment of Thurman Beeson as dog catcher was approved.

City administrator Don Lloyd advised the board that 12-inch concrete drainage tile could be purchased at $1.90 per running foot for the proposed improvement of drainage in the New Town area of town.

A meeting of the commissioners of the committee for demolition of derilect buildings was called for 10 a.m. Feb. 12 to consider action to be taken for enforcement of the ordinance requiring vacant buildings to be either torn down or repaired. Members of the commission are: Virgil "Flip" Dees, L.H. Recker, Bill Boyd and Joe Hunter.

Mayor Jim Cravens and administrator Lloyd were authorized to attend a meeting of the Missouri-Municipal League in Sikeston on Feb. 13.

The council approved an ordinance accepting the plans for West Acres subdivision No. 2.

Nevada City in Nevada County, Calif., was once the third largest city in the state.

the new city juvenile officer March 1.

The position is being funded by the federal emergency funding program for one year. At the end of the year, the position may be abolished if the funding expires, at which time Wilson would go back to being a regular police officer.

Church said the appointment will create vacancies in two or three supervisory positions in the police department due promotions. Members of the department eligible for promotion will be interviewed and tested for appointment March 1.

SEE-MOR CABLE TV

The council set 7:30 p.m. Feb. 10 as the time for a public hearing into See-Mor Cable TV's request for a $1 per month rate hike.

The hearing will be held in the council room of the City Administrative Building.

See-Mor previously had been granted a rate hike of $1.50 to become effective when it made three additional channels from St. Louis available. See-Mor is now asking for a $1 rate hike without the additional channel stipulation.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS

The council made appointments to three boards and nominated three men for Scott County Court consideration for an appointment to the special road district.

Nominees submitted for the road district position are Richard Tongate, G. B. Greer and Jack Hunter. The county court will choose one of the men for appointment.

Louis Wiggins and Raymond Leible were reappointed to the Police Advisory and Grievance Committee.

Roger Sherman and Hugh Goode were appointed to the Park Board.

Galen Kruger was appointed to the Airport Advisory Board.

No appointments were made to the Committee for Industrial Development.

SPEED LIMIT

Church said the State Highway Department is reviewing speed limits on all state highways within the city limits, including the speed limits on East Malone Avenue.

As soon as sufficient data is collected, the Missouri Highway Commission will make recommendations to Sikeston concerning speed limits on East Malone.

Church said the study will indicate whether lowering the speed limit on the road will cut the number of accidents, which average one per day.

Hearing set to discuss city sales tax

CHAFFEE — The question of whether or not to have a one-cent city sales tax will be discussed in a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday at the City Hall. The decision to hold the meeting came at Monday's City Council meeting.

The City Council will submit to the Scott County Corut as possible appointments to the Chaffee Special Road District.

Those to be submitted include Alvin Enderle, H. B. McClanahan and Lloyd Swain. The County Court will choose one among the three.

The City Council Monday also decided to raise the number of firemen from 11 to 15.

For wheat this would mean a loan of $2.95 and a target price of $4.65.

For corn this would mean a loan of $1.95 and a target price of $2.37.

Loan and target levels for other feed grains would be established in relation to their feeding value to that of corn and at the same percentage of parity price levels.

For cotton this would mean a loan of 53 cents and a target price of 65 cents.

MFA said the cotton situation is extremely serious. And, the question today is whether cotton will survive -- even as a speciality crop. The farm spokesmen said the only hope for cotton at this time is for increases in loan and target prices in keeping with the need for income protection to the farmer. Needs of cotton farmers must be recognized and met with the urgency of the situation in mind if there is to be a cotton industry, they stressed.

MFA recommended legislative action to provide non-recourse loans of 70 per cent of parity for soybeans.

Hearing set to discuss city sales tax

CHAFFEE — The question of whether or not to have a one-cent city sales tax will be discussed in a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday at the City Hall. The decision to hold the meeting came at Monday's City Council meeting.

The City Council will submit to the Scott County Court as possible appointments to the Chaffee Special Road District.

Those to be submitted include Alvin Enderle, H. B. McClanahan and Lloyd Swain. The County Court will choose one among the three.

The City Council Monday also decided to raise the number of firemen from 11 to 15.

For wheat this would mean a loan of $2.95 and a target price of $4.65.

For corn this would mean a loan of $1.95 and a target price of $2.37.

Loan and target levels for other feed grains would be established in relation to their feeding value to that of corn and at the same percentage of parity price levels.

For cotton this would mean a loan of 53 cents and a target price of 65 cents.

MFA said the cotton situation is extremely serious. And, the question today is whether cotton will survive -- even as a speciality crop. The farm spokesmen said the only hope for cotton at this time is for increases in loan and target prices in keeping with the need for income protection to the farmer. Needs of cotton farmers must be recognized and met with the urgency of the situation in mind if there is to be a cotton industry, they stressed.

MFA recommended legislative action to provide non-recourse loans of 70 per cent of parity for soybeans.
